1.1. Main contents

With Legislative Decree No. 231 of June 8, 2001, issued in execution of the delegation of authority under Article 11 of Law No. 300 of September 29, 2000, the “administrative liability of legal persons, Companies and associations, including those without legal personality,” following the commission of criminal offenses, was introduced into the Italian legal system.

The regulatory intervention represented a turning point in our criminal law system: in fact, the legislator introduced the principle that even the Company (legal person or not) can be called to answer directly for the criminal offence committed (or even only attempted) by a person in some way connected to the organization, when from the crime committed the entity has gained undue interest or advantage, and not only for its consequences on the civil law level.

The crimes for which the decree is applicable (described in detail in the appendix to this document) are:

- art. 24: undue receipt of disbursements, fraud to the detriment of the state, a public body or the European Union or to obtain public disbursements, computer fraud to the detriment of the state or a public body and fraud in public supplies;
- art. 24-bis: computer crimes and unlawful data processing;
- art. 24-ter: organized crime offenses;
- art. 25: embezzlement, extortion, undue inducement to give or promise benefits, bribery and abuse of office;
- art. 25-bis: forgery of money, public credit cards, revenue stamps, and identification instruments or signs;
- art. 25-bis 1: crimes against industry and commerce;
- art. 25-ter: corporate crimes;
- art. 25-quater: crimes with the purpose of terrorism or subversion of democratic order;
- art. 25-quater-1: practices of female genital mutilation;
- art. 25-quinquies: crimes against the individual personality;
- art. 25-sexies: market abuse crimes;

- art. 25-septies: crimes of culpable homicide and serious or very serious culpable injury, committed in violation of accident prevention regulations and the protection of hygiene and health at work;
- art. 25-octies: handling of stolen goods, money laundering and use of money, goods or utilities of illegal origin, as well as self-laundering;
- art. 25-octies 1: offenses related to non-cash payment instruments and fraudulent transfer of values;
- art. 25-novies: offences relating to violation of copyright;
- art. 25-decies: inducement not to make statements or to make false statements to the judicial authorities;
- art. 25-undecies: environmental crimes;
- art. 25-duodecies: employment of third-country nationals whose stay is irregular;
- art. 25-terdecies: xenophobia and racism;
- art. 25-quaterdecies: fraud in sports competitions, abusive gaming or betting and gambling exercised by means of prohibited devices;
- art. 25-quinquiesdecies: tax crimes;
- art. 25-sexiesdecies: smuggling;
- art. 25-septiesdecies: crimes against cultural heritage;
- art. 25-duodevicies: laundering of cultural property and devastation and looting of cultural property and landscape;
- Transnational crimes.

For a more complete and detailed examination of the so-called predicate offenses, express reference is made to the regulatory appendix to be considered an integral part of this organization, management and control model.

1.2. The applicability of administrative responsibility and stakeholders

Pursuant to Article 5 of Legislative Decree 231/01, in order for the administrative liability of the company to be integrated, when a crime has been committed by a natural person functionally related to the entity itself, it is necessary that the crime has been committed “in its interest or to its advantage,” since the entity is not liable if its perpetrator has “acted exclusively in its own interest or in the interest of third parties.”

In addition, parallel to the criminal liability of the perpetrator of the crime (a natural person), the administrative liability of the entity may loom if the crime is committed by individuals in an apical position within the entity or by individuals in a subordinate position. More precisely, again under Article 5, “the entity is liable for offenses committed in its interest or to its advantage:

- a) by persons who hold positions of representation, administration or management of the entity or one of its organizational units with financial and functional autonomy, as well as by persons who exercise, even de facto, the management and control of the same (so-called top persons)
- b) to persons subject to the management or supervision of one of the persons referred to in subparagraph (a) (so-called subordinates).”

The entity's administrative liability also arises in cases where one of the crimes provided for in the Decree is committed, in the form of an attempt.

According to a well-established jurisprudential orientation, administrative liability arising from a crime also finds application in the presence of a Group, albeit with some significant limitations and conditions, when, for example, it is one of the subsidiaries that commits a crime presupposed by the liability itself (so-called ascent of liability).

1.3. Organization and management model and related activities

Where the crime was committed by individuals in an apical position, the legislative decree stipulates that the entity is not administratively liable if it provides proof that (Art. 6):

- a) the management body has adopted and effectively implemented, prior to the commission of the crime, organization and management models suitable to prevent crimes of the kind that occurred;

- b) the task of supervising the operation of and compliance with the models and ensuring that they are updated has been entrusted to a body of the entity with autonomous powers of initiative and control;
- c) the persons committed the crime by fraudulently circumventing the organization and management models;
- d) there has been no omission or insufficient supervision by the body referred to in subparagraph (b).

According to Paragraph II of Article 6, the Organization, Management and Control Model must meet the need to:

1. identify the activities within the scope of which crimes may be committed;
2. provide specific protocols aimed at planning the formation and implementation of the entity's decisions in relation to the crimes to be prevented; and
3. identify the methods of management of financial resources suitable to prevent the commission of crimes;
4. provide for information obligations towards the body in charge of supervising the functioning and observance of the models;
5. introduce a disciplinary system suitable for sanctioning non-compliance with the measures indicated in the Model.

In the event, on the other hand, that the crime was perpetrated by “persons subject to the direction of others,” Article 7 of the legislative decree stipulates that the entity is liable “if the commission of the crime was made possible by the failure to comply with the obligations of management and supervision,” failure which is excluded “if the entity, before the crime was committed, adopted and effectively implemented an Organization, Management and Control Model suitable for preventing crimes of the kind that occurred.”

The same rule then stipulates that the Model must provide for appropriate measures to ensure that the activity is carried out in compliance with the law and to discover and eliminate risk situations in a timely manner. The same article, moreover, stipulates that the effective implementation of the Model requires both “periodic verification” and “possible modification” of the Model in cases where “significant violations of the prescriptions are discovered” or where “changes occur in the organization or activity,” and a disciplinary system suitable for sanctioning non-compliance with the measures indicated in the Model itself.

1.4. The sanctions provided for in the Decree

Article 9(1) of Legislative Decree 231/01 lists the sanctions, distinguishing them into: pecuniary sanctions, prohibitory sanctions, confiscation, and publication of the judgment.

The interdictory sanctions are: disqualification from carrying out the activity; suspension or revocation of authorizations, licenses or concessions functional to the commission of the offence; prohibition from contracting with the P.A., except to obtain the performance of a public service; exclusion from facilitations, financing, contributions or subsidies and the possible revocation of those already granted; and prohibition from advertising goods or services.

Unlike the pecuniary sanction, which is always applied, disqualification sanctions are applied when expressly provided for by law and provided that at least one of the conditions mentioned above is met: the entity must have derived a significant profit from the crime and the crime must have been committed by persons in a top position or by persons under the direction of others when the commission of the crime was determined or facilitated by serious organizational deficiencies; or in case of repetition of the offenses.

Disqualification sanctions have a duration of no less than three months and no more than two years.

3. The Internal Control System

Ogilvy One

- Regulatory principles

3.1 Regulatory principles

The internal control system qualifies as the set of tools aimed at providing a reasonable guarantee of achieving the objectives of operational efficiency and effectiveness, reliability of information, compliance with laws and regulations, as well as safeguarding assets also against possible fraud or malfeasance.

In the definition, construction and application of its internal control system, the Company observes the following regulatory principles:

- formalisation of the control system in specific documentation aimed at defining and regulating the methods and timing of the activities relating to the controls themselves, as well as the performance of controls useful for mitigating risks;
- traceability in order to make it possible to document and verify the performance of controls attesting to the characteristics of and the reasons for individual operations and to ensure that each operation, transaction and/or action is verifiable, documented, consistent and appropriate;
- segregation in order to guarantee the separation of functions, i.e. avoiding that the management of the entire process is carried out independently by a single person;
- attribution of authorisation powers (proxies and powers of attorney), where it is possible and appropriate to distribute them consistently with the company organisation in order to avoid the attribution of unlimited powers and, above all, the clear traceability within and outside the organisation of powers and responsibilities.

Ogilvy One's control system consists of the following levels:

- Level I controls, represented by the so-called 'line controls' and carried out by the function managers or through recourse to external professional figures; these include the verification and control moments defined by the applicable regulatory documentation;
- Level II controls, normally aimed at monitoring the risk management and control process; these include, for example, performance indicators (KPIs);

- Level III controls, aimed at providing assurance and performing independent assessments on the design and functioning of the internal control system as a whole. These typically include the audit activities of the Supervisory Board or other parties (e.g. SOX).

4. Ogilvy One's Organisation, Management and Control Model

Ogilvy One

- Objectives aimed at by the model
- Document Architecture

4.1 Objectives aimed at by the model

The Company wants to ensure conditions of correctness and transparency in the conduct of business and corporate activities, to protect its position and image, the work of its employees and the market in which it operates.

On the basis of these reasons, the Company has adopted the Organisation and Management Model envisaged by Legislative Decree 231/01 in the belief that its adoption can be a valid tool to raise awareness in all those who work in the name and on behalf of the Company, so that they follow, in the performance of their activities, correct and straightforward behaviour.

The purpose of the Model is, therefore, the construction of a structured and organic system of procedures, protocols, codes of conduct, as well as control activities, to be carried out also in a preventive manner (so-called ex ante control), aimed at preventing the commission of the different types of offences contemplated by the Decree.

In particular, through the identification of 'areas of activity at risk' and the consequent definition of specific procedures, the Model aims to:

- sensitise all those who work in the name and on behalf of the Company to a corporate culture based on legality and make them aware that in the event of violation of the provisions herein they may incur in the commission of offences punishable by criminal sanctions that may be imposed on them and administrative sanctions that may be imposed on the Company
- reiterate that such forms of unlawful conduct are strongly condemned by the Company, since the same (even if the Company were apparently in a position to take advantage of them) are in any case contrary not only to the provisions of the law, but also to the ethical principles to which the Company intends to adhere in the implementation of its mission
- enable the Company to intervene promptly to prevent or oppose the commission of such offences through the dissemination of a control culture aimed at governing all the decision-making and operational phases of the Company's activities and the provision of monitoring action on the areas of activity at risk.

The Model is intended for the members of the corporate bodies and employees, meaning all those who are linked to the Company by a subordinate working relationship, as well as in general all those who perform, in the name of or on behalf of the Company, one or more of the activities identified as being at risk.

4.2 Document architecture

The organisational model consists of the following documentation, the architecture of which is depicted in the figure below:

- Guidelines of Confindustria and other trade associations, a document used as a methodological guideline, as well as a reference for some specific aspects referring to operational elements related to the decree;
- Organisation, Management and Control Model, a document describing the regulatory principles, general aspects and some specific aspects referring to operational elements related to the decree (e.g. Supervisory and Control Body, sanctions system);
- WPP Policy Book, a document illustrating the Company's (and the Group's) guiding values in the course of its activities, recommending, promoting or prohibiting certain behaviours;
- Risk Analysis, a document describing the activities within each process, the exposure to risk (broken down by specific type of offence) and the controls suggested following the assessment;
- the set of Company-specific documentation including: operational documents (including the controls required by SOX regulations), the regulation of the Supervisory Board, information flows to verify the effective implementation of the model, and the disciplinary system adopted.

5. Risk exposure

Ogilvy One

- Methodological premise
- Sensitive Activities for Ogilvy One

5.1 Methodological premise

Three ways through which the individual area may be exposed to risk-offense are taken into account when assessing risks with respect to business areas:

- direct exposure, if the execution of activities within the process are in themselves exposed to the risk of commission of wrongdoing. For example: the application for funding from the European Community or the relationship with the Supervisory Authorities, involving direct contact with the Public Administration, directly exposes the personnel in charge to the offenses of fraud, bribery or misappropriation of funds;
- instrumental exposure, if the process itself is not exposed to risk of wrongdoing, but its outcome is. For example: the hiring of employees linked to figures in the Public Administration may constitute the “giving” through which the crime of bribery is perfected for an act that is due or contrary to official duties; or the signing of consulting contracts, if carried out without special care or caution, may constitute the way through which funds are constituted to be used for purposes of an illicit nature;
- non-significant exposure, if the risk-offense is only abstractly conceivable for a given area or process.

Based on the type and degree of risk exposure, each process/activity is regulated by specific internal documentation: the principles of behavior contained in the WPP Policy Book also apply to all company areas.

In this section, the results of the risk analysis and the related controls implemented to reduce the risk profile that may have been highlighted are presented in a summary manner, breaking them down according to the offenses under the decree.

The Group operates as a divisional structure with centralized functions, in which the individual Companies oversee specific processes to which they dedicate resources with the necessary attitudes and skills.

To this end, the Supervisory Board is kept constantly informed about the development of activities in the aforementioned risk areas and has free access to all relevant company documentation. The Supervisory Board must also be notified by management of any situations in the company's activities that may expose the Company to the risk of crime.

- General criteria for imposing the sanction
- Penalties

The Company condemns any behavior that deviates from the provisions of this Model even if said behavior is carried out in the interest or to the benefit of the Company.

The sanction system of this Model is aimed exclusively at strengthening its effectiveness and compliance by all personnel.

The sanctioning measures established do not replace any additional sanctions of another nature that may result as a consequence of the same fact of crime (criminal, administrative, civil sanction).

The sanctioning measures, laid down in this Model, are applied by the Personnel Management upon the exclusive and reasoned report of the Supervisory Board.

The adequacy of the disciplinary system to the requirements of the Decree must be constantly monitored by the SB.

8.1 General criteria for imposing the sanction

The type and amount of penalty to be applied, once the violation is established, is defined according to the following criteria:

- assessment of conduct based on intent, fault, negligence or malpractice;
- relevance of the obligations violated;
- level of responsibility of the person involved based on hierarchical criteria;
- presence of aggravating or mitigating circumstances.

The following behaviors constitute disciplinary infractions for which the sanctions provided in the following paragraphs may be applied:

- the non-fulfillment of the obligation of supervision and control by the persons having such responsibility over their subordinates;
- the violation, commission or omission, of the procedures provided and/or established for the implementation of the Model;
- the non-cooperation or reticence of personnel in providing information to the SB;
- the violation (with malice or gross negligence) to the obligation of communication to the SB, in accordance with the provisions of this Model on communication flows;

- the drafting, as well as facilitating the drafting, of incomplete and untrue documentation;
- the failure to draw up the documentation required by this Model or the procedures provided for its implementation;
- the violation or avoidance of the control system provided by the Model.

8.2 Penalties

Penalties for employees

With regard to employees, the Decree provides that the disciplinary system must respect the limits on the power disciplinary power imposed by Article 7 of Law no. 300/1970 (so-called ‘Statuto of workers’ rights’) and by sector and company collective bargaining, both with regard to the sanctions that can be imposed and with regard to the form of exercising this power.

With reference to the sanctions that can be imposed, it is specified that they shall be adopted and applied in compliance with the procedures laid down in the national and company collective regulations applicable to the employment relationship.

Without prejudice to the principle of connection between the disciplinary measures that can be imposed and the cases in relation to which they may be taken, in the imposition of the disciplinary sanction the principle of proportionality between the offence and the sanction must necessarily be observed.

Violation of the provisions of the Model may constitute a breach of contractual obligations, with all consequences of the law and in particular Articles 2104, 2106, 2118 and 2119 of the Civil Code and Article 7 of Law No. 300/1970.

The sanction system provides for: (verbal/written) reprimand, a fine, temporary suspension from service and of pay and dismissal for breach of contractual obligations.

Measures against mayors

In the event of a breach by a member of the Board of Statutory Auditors, the Supervisory Board shall immediately inform the Board of Directors by means of a written report. Measures towards consultants, partners and suppliers

Any violation of the regulations in force, of the Model or of the behavioural principles expressed in the WPP Policy Book by consultants, professionals, partners and suppliers in general (as well as any other party with which the Company comes into contact in the performance of business relations) shall be sanctioned, in accordance with the provisions of the specific contractual clauses included in the relevant contracts, on the basis of the applicable provisions of law, through acts of termination for just cause, with any possible consequences also in terms of compensation.

This is without prejudice to any claim for compensation if such conduct results in concrete damage to the Company, such as in cases where the measures provided for by the Decree are applied to it by the judge.

These actions are motivated by the fact that the Company has an interest in extending the culture of corporate legality as far as possible also to those who have contact, albeit occasional, with the structure; therefore, special clauses are included in the contractual agreements in which such persons are asked to formally adhere to compliance with all the behavioural procedures existing in the company.
